Subject: Please prohibit the manufacture, sale, and use of cruel and illegal gestation and farrowing crates for pig farms.

Dear Suchiang Ji:

I am writing to you from People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) India on behalf of our more than two million members and supporters to request that your ministry advise the State governments to prohibit the manufacture, sale, and use of gestation and farrowing crates for pig farming since they are in violation of Section 11(1)(e) of The Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960, as confirmed recently by the Indian Council of Agricultural Research's National Research Centre on Pig via a Right to Information response (Annexure A), the Directorate of Animal Husbandry, Punjab and Chandigarh, through a 2014 circular (Annexure B), by the Karnataka Animal Welfare Board (Annexure C) and Goa Animal Husbandry and Veterinary Services (Annexure D) in September 2021. In February of this year, Madhya Pradesh Animal Husbandry and Dairying Department issued a similar circular, directing all deputy directors in the state to inspect and subsequently stop any use of gestation and farrowing crates in piggeries state-wide (Annexure E). Last month, the Directorate of Animal Husbandry, Government of Rajasthan, issued a circular advising all Joint Directors of the Department of Animal Husbandry to coordinate with the district administrators statewide to ensure compliance with prohibiting the use of cruel and illegal gestation and farrowing crates in pig farming (Annexure F). Additionally, the Uttarakhand Animal Welfare Board has endorsed such a prohibition on gestation and farrowing crates and forwarded their representation to the Ministry of Fisheries, Animal Husbandry & Dairying (Annexure G). Substantially, the Animal Welfare Board of India has written the Ministry of Fisheries, Animal Husbandry & Dairying requesting an action taken report on the use of gestation and farrowing crates in pig farming nationwide (Annexure H).

Gestation and farrowing crates are cruel, controversial features of intensive pig farming, and their routine use has been banned in various countries around the world. Gestation crates (also called sow stalls) are metal cages used to confine pregnant pigs. They are essentially the size of a pig's body, with concrete or slatted floors, leaving the animals unable to turn around or even stand up without difficulty and forcing them to lie in their own waste. Farrowing crates are where pigs are transferred to give birth and typically kept for several weeks until their piglets are taken away. They are fundamentally the same as gestation crates, except for small side rooms for piglets.

Both gestation and farrowing crates are so narrow that mother pigs are denied everything that's natural and important to them, such as opportunities to move, forage, build a nest for their young, socialise with other pigs, regulate their body temperature (such as by wallowing in mud), move away from their own bodily waste, protect their young, or even adjust when piglets may painfully nibble at their teats. Lying on their sides on concrete while nursing piglets, mother pigs often develop pressure sores that can become infected from filth. The small concrete or metal barred area of a farrowing crate is, in fact, so cramped that it doesn't allow a mother pig to nuzzle, clean, or even see her piglets well. The extreme stress and frustration caused by this severe confinement results in abnormal behaviour, such as when sows constantly bite at the enclosure bars or continuously "chew" air.

Photographic evidence of the sale and use of gestation and farrowing crates in the country is included as Annexure I, even though the Indian Council of Agricultural Research's National Research Centre on Pig clearly states that such crates do not allow the opportunity for reasonable movement are illegal.

Section 11(1)(e) of the PCA Act, 1960, states that it is a punishable offence if anyone "keeps or confines any animal in any cage or other receptacle which does not measure sufficiently in height, length and breadth to permit the animal a reasonable opportunity for movement". The objective of both gestation and farrowing crates is to restrict a sow from making movements and are, thus, illegal and inherently cruel.

For all these reasons, may I request that you issue an order prohibiting the manufacture, sale, and use of cruel and illegal gestation and farrowing crates? Thank you for your time and consideration. We kindly request a copy of any circular issued as a result of this letter. I would be happy to provide any assistance you might need and can be reached at Farhatu@petaindia.org, and at 8527506382.

Yours sincerely,

Farhat

Sir,

In reference to the subject cited above, I am furnishing herewith the available information as mentioned below:

Sl. No.	RTI query	Remarks
1	Q.1: Are gestation crate/ farrowing crates illegal as per section 11(1)e of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals act 1960?	Section 11(1) e of PCA act 1960 mentions about "confines any animal in a cage or other receptacle which does not measure sufficiently in height, length, and breadth to permit the animal any reasonable opportunity for movement". Accordingly, use of any gestation crate/farrowing crate which does not measure sufficiently in height, length, and breadth to permit the animal any reasonable opportunity for movement is illegal.
2	Q.2: Does the NRCP actively recommend and promote the use of gestation and farrowing crates in India?	NRCP does not have any programme to recommend/promote the use of gestation/farrowing crates in India.

Thanking you,

Yours Sincerely,

Respected sir/madam,

Subject: Prohibiting the manufacture, sale and use of gestation and farrowing crates for pig farming.

Reference: People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, Post Box 28260. -Juhu, Mumbai-400049.
Letter dated: 25/08/2021.

In reference to the above, in the letter by the People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, Post Box 28260, Juhu, Mumbai (copy attached) it has been indicated that in pig farming the gestation and farrowing crates are being manufactured, sold and used in violation of Section 11(1) e of Animal Husbandry Act 1960 and are to be banned from doing so.

Because in the said metal crates there is insufficient space and it is problematic for the mother pig and piglets to move, and since they are to live on their own feces and urine it causes sores and diseases, it is asked to prohibit the manufacture, sale and use of these types of gestation and farrowing crates.

Yours faithfully

CIRCULAR

As per communication received from People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA), manufacture, sale and use of gestation and farrowing crates for pig farming are in violation of Section 11(1)(e) of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960 and as further confirmed by the Indian Council of Agricultural Research's National Research Centre on Pig. Gestation and farrowing crates are cruel, controversial features of intensive pig farming

Section 11(1)(e) of the PCA Act, 1960, states that it is cruelty and a punishable offence if anyone "keeps or confines any animal in any cage or other receptacle which does not measure sufficiently in height, length and breadth to permit the animal a reasonable opportunity for movement". Both gestation and farrowing crates fail to allow a sow to make reasonable movements and are, thus, illegal.

In view of the above, all Assistant Directors / Veterinary Officers of the Department are required to immediately comply on the above matter and prohibit the use of both gestation and farrowing crates in Goa.

This is for strict compliance.
